Entrepreneurs propose domed entertainment center

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A multi-story, $12 million, domed entertainment facility might become one of the biggest developments to be built in the city in several years, if negotiations for the sale of the land needed for the project are successful.

Belvin Liles, one of three partners in the project, said last week that negotiations for the purchase of the property near Metro airport are under way. The other partners are David Gamlin, 26, and Enrique Griffin, 26. All three are from Detroit.

"We're in the final stages and preparing to break ground," said Gamlin, saying the project is expected to bring between 90 and 120 jobs into the community.

The three also hope to gross approximately $7.5 million during their first year of operation in a "conservative" estimate.

Proposed in the project is a six- to seven-story wooden, geodesic dome, 140,000 square feet in dimensions and covering five acres of land. Designers of the facility are Coquillard and Associates of Southfield.

"Attractions inside include go-carting, miniature golf, skill games like crossbow archery, super star recording and much more. It's all family fun," said Liles.

One highlight of the entertainment center, he continued, will be a "Shaker One" device in which "people will experience air flight."

"Interaction entertainment is the hottest thing in the business. You have to participate to have fun, and the more you participate, the more fun you'll have," Gamlin explained. "And there's no limit to that. We just want to bring entertainment to the urban area."

Visitors from as far away as Lansing and Toledo are hoped to be lured to the center, Gamlin said.

"This is the heart of a tremendous people market. We want to be associated with the hottest trends in the entertainment business. We plan on staying on top. When the market changes, we'll change," said Gamlin.

The entertainment center is unprecedented in the area, according to Gamlin. About five centers such as the one proposed exist throughout the world, but "none have this variety of entertainment."

The three, calling their company Alpha One Inc., expect to break ground on the project by December. Opening-day ceremonies for the entertainment facility have tentatively been set for November 1988.

The partners are graduates of Cass Technical High School in Detroit. Liles and Gamlin played football and graduated from Hillsdale College. Gamlin majored in international business.

Liles completed law school at the University of Toledo in May. Griffin graduated with a computer science degree.

The partners have been in business for the past four years under the name of Espial Inc. Four months ago the company was re-organized and renamed Alpha One.

More than one and one-half million people are expected to visit the facility within the first year. "That's a conservative estimate," Liles said.

Admission will be $3 and capacity crowd numbers between 4,000 and 6,000.

"We think Romulus is a growing city, and we would like to be part of that. It's going to boom."

The project plan has yet to appear before council members in the form of a site plan or formalized proposal.

Man with local ties found murdered on Detroit street

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The body of a young man which remained unidentified in the Wayne County morgue since his fatal stabbing on July 9 was claimed by a prominent Romulus family Monday.

Quinton J. Raspberry, 21, of Southfield, formerly of Romulus, was last seen when he finished his shift at a local McDonald's. He was expected to return with a package of cigarettes, but was never seen again.

Two hours later, according to relatives, police were notified of an unidentified body which had been dead on arrival at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Although Raspberry was born in Detroit, he was raised in Romulus on Fourth Street. He graduated from Romulus High School in 1984.

His grandfather, Jimmie Raspberry, formerly served on the Romulus council for 29 years and is presently a candidate for council.

Family and friends were unaware of the young man's death or whereabouts until Sunday when newspaper reports of the unidentified body appeared, Raspberry said.

"On the basis of what people told us, we went down to the morgue, but the picture on the video camera was not him. When we returned and saw the paper which was him, we returned on Monday," he said.

"This is real tragedy. After he left work, he was never seen again. He was a super guy and very talented," he added.

The young Raspberry made the honor roll many times during his school years.

"He was an avid tennis player and liked bowling. He played the piano at church and was at one time director of the church choir. I guess we like to brag," said Raspberry.

Raspberry is survived by his mother, Brenda Raspberry of Romulus, father, Edsel Whitehead of Inkster, and sister, Sharon Raspberry. He is also survived by several aunts and uncles.

Reports from family and police are sketchy but indicate the young Raspberry was killed within two hours from the time he left his job. After he was stabbed, he made his way about 200 feet to a home on Shaftesberry Street in northwest Detroit where an ambulance was called.

The next day his mother filed a missing person's report. There had been no leads to young Raspberry's whereabouts until Sunday. Police are still investigating the case and ask anyone with information to call Detroit Homicide at 224-4280.

Funeral arrangements are being made by Digg's Chapel of Chimes on Inkster near Van Born Road in Westland. Visitation will be from 6 to 7 p.m. Friday. Funeral services are scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday at the Smith Chapel A.M.E. on Walnut Street in Inkster.

Ecorse residents undecided about future

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

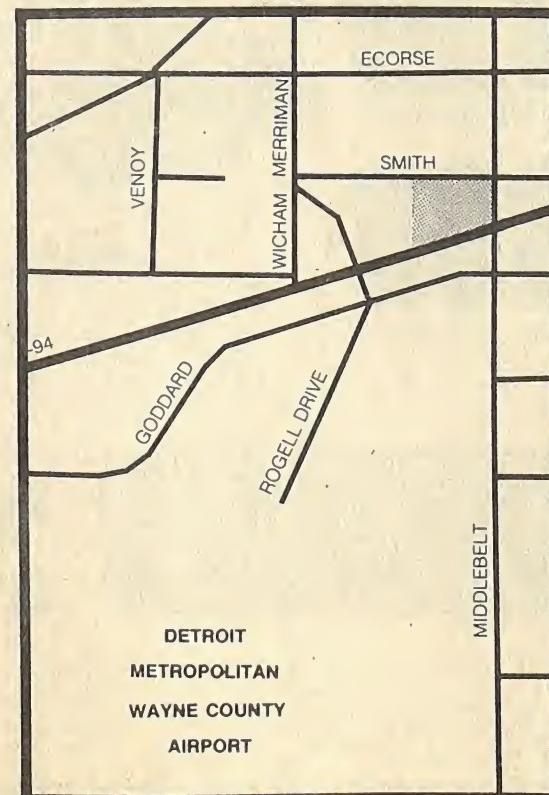

Sandwiched between an expressway, an airlines parking lot and a major thoroughfare, residents of the Ecorse Subdivision in Romulus have some serious concerns about future development of their area.

The area - bounded by Smith Road on the north and the I-94 freeway on the south and Airlines Parking on the west and Middlebelt Road on the east - encompasses about 50 acres, according to Dennis Meagher, planning consultant from Community Planning and Management in Utica.

Residents of the area face encroaching development from the west and impending freeway expansion on the south, explained Mayor Beverly McAnally, prompting her to meet with area homeowners last month in an effort to alleviate some of their fears and investigate their needs.

The Michigan Department of Transportation will be purchasing 48 parcels, or as many as 20 homes, along the freeway to allow for the I-94 interchanges of both Middlebelt and Merriman roads. Private developers have already acquired 66 parcels. There are 609 parcels platted in the subdivision and 109 occupied homes, according to McAnally.

At the meeting, the mayor said she would send a letter to residents requesting their input as to the future of their area.

Questionnaires were delivered to 166 residents, the mayor noted, while only 44 responded. Sixteen responses were in favor of forming a corporation to sell their property. Twelve were in favor of staying residential, and 10 respondents said they would like to negotiate a deal on their own. Only six respondents were in favor of developing an incentive plan for relocation within the city.

McAnally later notified residents of the results of the survey.

"Although we had thought from the meeting that there was greater interest, we will investigate the implementation of alternatives. There is no clear mandate," said McAnally.

She stressed one of the main goals is to maintain the residents in Romulus.

"Our goal is to have a package available to area residents. The city will not condemn this land nor has it ever been their intention," said Meagher.

Meetings have been conducted with the Michigan State Housing Development Authority to discuss what type of financing would be available to area residents such as low-interest loans and eligible financing.

According to Jim Napiorkowski, the mayor's assistant, "Developer Wendall Flynn has purchased most of the property west from his Airlines Parking business to Hudson Street. Mr. Flynn is actively purchasing property in the subdivision."

"The issues are extremely complex and the number of potential participants make the process very slow. We have begun work on the guidelines for the neighborhood corporation for property sale. And for those who wish to remain where they are, we assure you that we will continue to provide the same services that we provide for all our citizens," said McAnally.

Gas stations target of weekend robberies

Two armed robberies during the weekend continue to plague area service stations and keep police busy.

The first occurred about 8:30 a.m. Sunday morning at the station on Wayne at Wick roads when a lone black male entered the station with a newspaper tucked under his arm.

"He walked up to the counter and pulled out what was probably a fish fillet knife with a 6-inch blade. Then he said, 'I don't want to hurt nobody so open up your drawer,'" police reported.

The lone attendant produced the cash, and the suspect exited the station and headed west on foot. He was described as about 165 pounds, 5 feet 9 inches tall and in his mid 20s.

Tracking dogs stopped in the area of Garner and Wahrman streets, less than a mile from the scene of the crime. Nobody was injured, police said.

Less than 24 hours later, at 2:35 a.m. Monday, police arrived on the scene at the station at the corner of Wayne and Goddard roads.

Two individuals approached the station. One of the suspects ordered pop and chips. When the attendant went to the rear to retrieve the items, he produced a handgun and demanded all the money from the other attendant. The second individual appeared to act as a lookout, police officials said.

Both men were black but only one could be identified, police said. He was about 150 pounds, 5 feet 7 inches tall and in his early 20s. No shots were fired, and no vehicle was seen. The suspects fled down Goddard on foot.

Romulus police also note that one suspect was arrested in connection with an armed robbery last month at a station at Wayne and Wick roads.

Alvin Reels, 17, of Whitehorn Street, was arraigned in 34th District Court last week. He sits in Wayne County Jail pending his preliminary examination today. Bond was set at $50,000.

This is the same Reels who with his brother and friend apparently broke into the home of a neighbor that same night and arrested by local police the following morning. All three were arraigned in 34th District Court in the incident.

Window shoot-out baffles police

ROMULUS — Police and residents are still wondering why the windows of 11 cars in the Oakbrook subdivision were shot out last week.

Police were summoned to the neighborhood on the south side of the city early Saturday morning July 25 and found at least 11 different vehicles parked along the streets of Collins, Sandburg, Brandt, Anthony and Colbert damaged with gun shots.

Romulus police Lt. Ken Kraus said the target appeared to be mostly windows.

"At least one window from somewhere on each vehicle was shattered, usually on the driver's side. We didn't find any slugs. Probably, it was a pellet gun," Kraus said.

Police officials also said there were no witnesses or suspects.

Anyone with information is being asked to call 941-8400.

The Romulus Police Department will soon enter the increasingly popular world of high technology when they purchase a new portable cellular telephone. Police Chief Charles Wilmeth said, "The phone would be a tremendous asset to the department, since communications are an important element in providing police services. The use of this telephone on drug raids or other emergency situations would be invaluable." Ironically, funding for the estimated $3,475 mobile phone would come from the Narcotics Forfeiture Account, Wilmeth said. Council members approved the addition at the council meeting Monday night.

City donates 1986 State Champ signs

Members of the Romulus High School 1986 Class A State Basketball team are now the proud owner of large commemorative signs which formerly welcomed residents into the city at several cross streets. According to Mayor Beverly McAnally, the department of Public Works stored the 18 signs after they were replaced with new city signs. They will be distributed to team members. Terry Mills, Steve Glenn, Avery Jones, Maurice Butts, Troy Tipton, Ken Jones, Treg Gilstorf, Brent Bonam, Bill Johnson, Juan Street, Samuels Keith, Luther Shannon, Kono Staple, Lowell Johnson, athletic director and for display in the school. The action was taken by former team coach Al Wilkerson and approved by members of the Romulus City Council.

Local girl wins Softball throw

Kelly Tessin of Brandt Street in Romulus won third place in the Girl's Class A Softball Throw conducted at Metropolitan Beach in Macomb County earlier this month. Tessin was part of the Romulus team who joined 60 other cities from across southeastern Michigan. Her toss was 127 feet and 2 inches. Congratulations!

Crafters and artists still sought

The Romulus Arts Council is accepting applications for the Annual Arts and Crafts Fair scheduled for Sept. 12 in the parking lot of the Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road. Space rental costs $10. For information call 941-2678. Participation is already at a good level, said member Gloria Chandler.

Brothers are scholars

Two brothers attending St. Anthony's School in Belleville have earned special honors for their achievements.

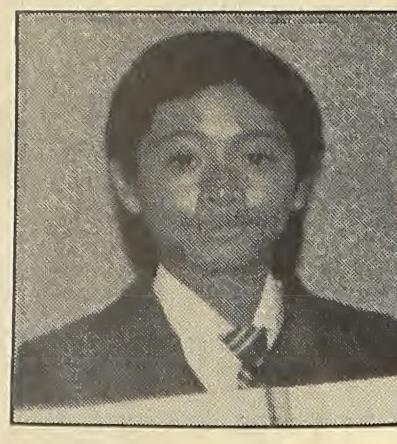

Randy and Roberto Balles- teros Jr. are the sons of Ninita and Roberto Ballesteros Sr.

Roberto Jr., 11, recently completed the sixth grade at St. Anthony's School. He was a member of the Tigers Swim Club where he received dual swim meet ribbons and medals for being the most improved and most valuable swimmer, according to his family. Roberto also received an award in the school Science Fair for an acid rain project, and earned recognition for reading more than 50 books in the summers of 1984 and 1986.

Randy, 7, completed the second grade in June. A straight "A" student, Randy earned the Principal's Award four times. He is a Cub Scout and a member of a bantam bowling team where he was recognized as most improved. His team also were second place champs and recorded team high game, according to a family member.

Both brothers are members of a Philippine dance troupe called the Tagumpay Dance Ensemble.

The family originally came from the Philippines and are now U.S. citizens.

Roberto Ballesteros

Fire runs are recorded

Belleville Fire Chief Anthony L. Talaga reported a total of seven runs for the second quarter of the year and a loss of $1,200.

All of the fire loss was reported in a basement incident. The other runs included a stove fire, vehicle fire, smoke investigation and an electrical fire. Three practices were conducted during the same period.

Romulus city council plans for Papal visit

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Even before Pope John Paul II lands at Metro Airport in Romulus on the last leg of his United States tour, he will have received a greeting from local Romulus residents.

Councilman Barry Baumann proposed two resolutions unanimously approved by members of the city council at their meeting Monday evening sending the best regards and good wishes of the community to the Pope. The resolutions will be forwarded to the Vatican and should arrive there prior to the Sept. 18 and 19 visit of the pontiff to the area.

Baumann was particularly pleased to present the resolutions, he explained, as he had the privilege of shaking the hand of the pope several years ago. Baumann said that while he was attending Orchard Lake School, the pope, then a Cardinal, visited the facility and met with several students.

The resolutions were prepared by Baumann and Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks. The resolution states, in part, "Pope John Paul carries an all encompassing responsibility in caring and praying for all mankind and seeking peace on earth and an end to war, famine and evil."

The resolution also noted, "The name of this community does relate itself to classic Roman history. We feel a kinship to Rome and extend greetings and friendship from our citizens."

Several weeks ago, Romulus officials received notification that they would be part of a select group of citizens who could be present at the departure ceremony of the pope on Saturday from Metro Airport after his 23-hour visit to the area.

"For several months we have discussed the arrival of the Holy Father at Metro Airport. We just received notice that we will be able to take part in the departure ceremony of the pope. This is going to be quite an experience," said Baumann.

"They will be sending us further instructions," he added.

It could not be confirmed if local Catholic parishes received their allotment of tickets for select events during the papal visit nor how they might distribute them. According to the church officials, each parish will have autonomy in that decision.

KEIM SOLD MINE! THE HELPFUL PEOPLE!

'La Bamba': Inkster fireman is hot

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The critics are calling the movie "joyous and exhilarating. A delight."

And Romulus resident Michael Moore's "role" in making La Bamba a box-office hit hasn't gone without equally impressive reviews from local critics.

Moore's musical overtones on the guitar can be heard in the movie during the song Lonely Teardrops. The song is featured during one portion of the movie in which 1950s rock singer Jackie Wilson performs just before movie star and subject Ritchie Valens takes the stage.

Moore's face never actually appears on the screen, but his musical participation in the film, he said, has been his biggest break in his recording career yet.

Moore was born and raised in Inkster, and sounds from nearby Motown during the 1960s influenced him greatly. La Bamba isn't the first glimpse of Hollywood for the local musician, having performed for several big-name stars in the past.

Among his favorite memories are working with Aretha Franklin, Whoopi Goldberg and Rolling Stones musicians

Ron Woods and Keith Richards in the video, Jumppin' Jack Flash. Moore has also worked with the Dramatics, the Four Tops, the Funkadelic and Anita Baker.

Still, he said, he hasn't yet "made it."

"There is no such thing as making it (for me)," Moore explained. "People like Lionel Richie have made it. He can sit back. But when I get paid for a session, I go out and buy groceries."

For the past two years, Moore has worked as a writer, producer and recording engineer at United Sound in Detroit. In addition, for the last 10 years, Moore has served as a fireman on the Inkster Fire Department.

He and his wife Alita are newlyweds and are expecting their first child.

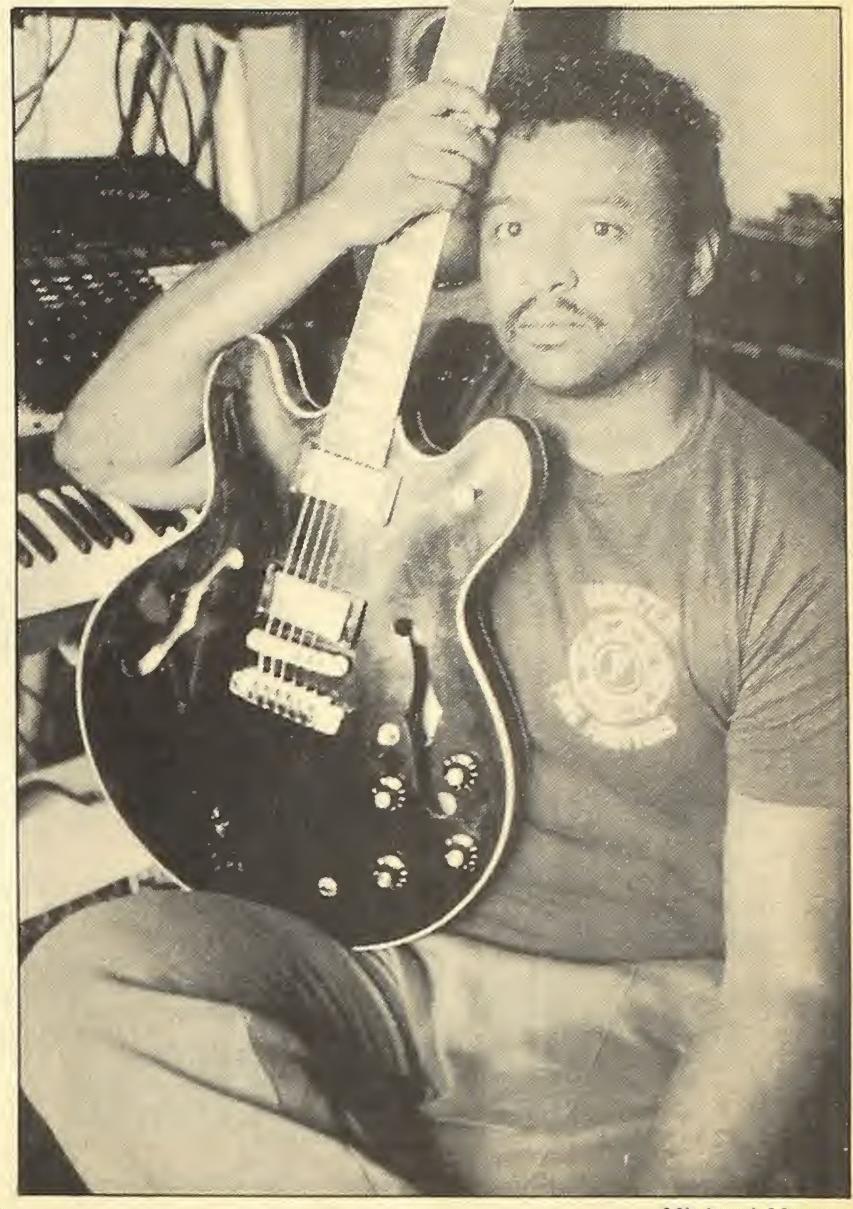

At age of 30, Moore has found some fame and some fortune. Yet, he said, he still wonders why it took so long.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: When did you first get involved in music, and why did you stay in it?

MOORE: I played drums for nine years beginning in high school, but I liked guitar. When I had the opportunity, I switched. I've only had a couple of lessons. I'm mostly self-taught.

Before he died, a good

DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES HAZARDOUS WASTE DIVISION
P.O. BOX 30038
LANSING, MICHIGAN 48909
NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF AN OPERATING LICENSE RENEWAL APPLICATION FOR A HAZARDOUS WASTE FACILITY

On May 27, 1982, Michigan Disposal, Inc. was issued a hazardous waste facility operating license pursuant to the Michigan Hazardous Waste Management Act, 1979 PA 64, as amended. That license expired on May 27, 1986. On June 24, 1987, the Department of Natural Resources received an operating license renewal application from the company.

Michigan Disposal, Inc. operates a facility which stores and treats liquid and semi-solid hazardous wastes. The facility is located at 49350 N. Service Drive, Belleville, Michigan.

In accordance with Section 24 of Act 64, the Department has 140 days from the date it receives a complete application to issue or deny an operating license. Department staff are currently reviewing the application to see if it is complete. If it is, a public hearing on the application and the Department's proposed licensing decision will be held on or about November 30, 1987.

If the application is found to be incomplete, the missing information will be requested from the applicant and Van Buren Township will be so notified. As soon as the missing information is provided by the applicant, the Department will immediately proceed with its technical review of the application. The public hearing will almost certainly be delayed if the application is determined to be incomplete.

In either case, however, a notice will appear in this publication approximately 30 days prior to the actual date of the hearing.

The company's application may be reviewed at the Department of Natural Resources, Waste Management Division, P.O. Box 30038, 1st Floor, South Ottawa Building, Lansing, Michigan 48909 and the Van Buren Township offices.

Copies of the application may be reviewed at the Department of Natural Resources, Waste Management Division at the address listed above for the cost of reproduction (approximately $80.00).

The Waste Management Division permit engineer for this application is Mr. James D. Roberts, who can be reached at 517-373-2730.

To receive future departmental notifications regarding this facility, contact Ms. Linda Reyes in the Waste Management Division at 517-373-2730 and ask to be put on the mailing list for the Michigan Disposal, Inc. operating license renewal application.

Perfect pays off

Who should claim the victory? We're tipping our hats to dozens of residents, city officials and legal personnel this week. We believe a job well done deserves a note of praise.

We speak of the city of Wayne residents, politicians, administrators and legal counselors who for almost one year fought a bloody verbal and legal battle with an adult bookstore located within that city. We speak of the countless hours of strategy meetings, the thousands of dollars spent, the tiresome courtroom hearings and the all-out war waged against the bookstore owners, who set up shop in August 1986 in a thief-in-the-night fashion.

A victory was well deserved. But who gets the credit?

City officials were informed last week that the attorneys for the Read More News and Video adult bookstore, located on Michigan Avenue and Newburgh Road, withdrew lawsuit and appeal of a court decision against the city of Wayne, ending an 11-month battle. The news was lauded by city council members and attorneys. And, most of all, residents.

But who, above all else, did the most work?

The battle against the bookstore was, in our opinion, a classic example of maintaining composure even when the going gets tough. Following news that an adult bookstore had opened on Aug. 25, 1986, residents near the bookstore quickly organized to form a protest. Letters were sent to city officials urging action, and some residents even considered picketing the business to mark it unwanted in the community.

City officials and residents alike maintained their composure and stressed that the situation would best be handled via the American system of justice. The bookstore owners had misled the city before opening, saying that the business would be one selling, renting and repairing video cassette recorders. This deceptive scheme later led to a Wayne County Circuit Court injunction that forced the bookstore to close and subsequent sale of the property.

Indeed, perfect composure paid off. Finally, last month auto dealership owner Jack Demmer announced he would buy the bookstore building to convert the structure into a used car showroom. Following the announcement, bookstore attorneys announced that they would withdraw their lawsuits and appeals.

Demmer, obviously, was a local hero and triggered the end of this almost year-old struggle. He, too, is being lauded today as we focus on the end of this legal battle.

But who should be claiming the victory?

Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton in a telephone call recently thought this newspaper had made too much of a hero of Demmer. Norton said it was the councilmembers who made Demmer's purchase of the building possible and it was the councilmembers who were being slighted in coverage by this paper.

While we understand Norton's possible political need to see that fellow council members receive recognition and be credited with ridging the community of a business such as this one – especially in an election year – and while we wouldn't begin to underestimate the councilmembers' efforts this matter, we feel there is no one entity that should claim the full victory in this battle. The entire community deserves the praise.

The successful closing of the Read More News and Video adult bookstore was the result of a community working together – councilmembers, lawyers, citizens and businesses – to see that justice was served to the full extent. While it was the councilmembers who hired the lawyers who developed the legal strategies to win the battle, it was the citizens and business owners who supported these lawmakers through and through.

We tip our hats to all who made this victory possible and laud you on your perfect composure. It will be this type of composure and planned action that will lead you to personal and professional victories again and again.

Many questions surround slayings

To The Editor:

Officer Daniel Dubiel, officer Clay Hoover, and Sgt. Ira Parker of Inkster were three men who died with honor July 9, 1987. It was a sad occasion for many of us awakened on Friday morning to hear how brutal their deaths had been. I know probably our first instinct was let's kill the accused, they don't deserve to live, why did it have to be these three guys or why, why, why? At the memorial service at the Inkster Recreation Complex, it was stated that if we did know why it happened, we still would not be able to accept it because we don't totally understand death.

I did not know officers Hoover or Dubiel, however I do realize that they were human beings, and they were public servants trying to keep law and order in our community. Their lives were taken because of their loyalty as police officers and their concern for the community. Hopefully, we will begin to accept their death as we have to accept so many other distasteful circumstances in our lives.

There are a lot of human beings leaving us because of senselessness. I think we should stop and look inside our own house and see if we can find anything that's distasteful to us. If we don't find anything distasteful, I think we should help someone else in a positive way. But if we do find something distasteful, we should begin right now to correct it.

Although many of us were saddened by the officers death, I think there is a lesson for all of us to take into consideration. First, we should be a little more sensitive to our neighbors and not forget that all of us here on this planet called earth are important, and if we take a little more time and note our neighbors' condition, possibly many negative situations could be avoided.

I know that words cannot bring these men back, however, I hope that those of us who remain on this planet for a short period of time will begin to acknowledge his fellow man in a more positive way.

Just read the article about

Daffy the Duck. How ridiculous can anyone get!

Michael Shopshear the 12-year old boy who bought the duck at a pet store, did not commit a crime, is not into drugs, nor doing anything harmful. I am incensed to no end that city officials are considering removing the duck! The duck is important.

Our coverage of elections

The Associated Newspapers will not run any non-news-related articles concerning any candidate for public office within one month before the election without also including a related article about all of his opponents.

This policy includes groundbreaking ceremonies, check presentations and feature stories.

This newspaper will run a candidate profile of all candidates in an election the Wednesday prior to the election. A list of the newspaper endorsements will also be featured at this time.

Letters to the editor endorsing candidates or political issues will be considered only as paid advertisements. The Associated Newspapers will label these items as such and charge 10 cents per word for publication.

A primary election will be staged in Wayne, Romulus and Inkster on Tuesday, Sept. 15. A ballot-issue election will also be staged in Canton Township, although no candidates there are up for reelection this year.

The ANP one-month policy regarding non-news items will go into effect Aug. 15. This policy has been established to ensure fair, unbiased and complete coverage of all candidates and issues in an election.

Questions regarding this policy should be addressed to the managing editor.

Magic or menace?

The Bible says that, "In the beginning, God created the Heavens and the Earth." Nowhere have I read a reference to His creation of the transistor and the microchip, yet here we are in 1987 as dependent on electronic magic for our very survival as if our creator had placed Adam and Eve in Silicon Valley rather than the Garden of Eden.

With each passing day I become more aware that our lives are ordered by computers, electronics and the numbers they provide us. If some electronic magic box tells a clerk somewhere to do something, they are programmed to do it. Considering the time it takes to train people to think logically and rationally, retailers, banks, telephone companies and like businesses have programmed their employees somewhat like computers to respond to numbers. All this was brought to mind rather vividly last week when all manner of electronic faux pas befell me on the same day.

It began, I guess, when I went to the bank to figure out why they said I had more money than my checkbook balance indicated. As I sometimes do, I went to the window and requested a print out of my account. A very pleasant young woman informed me that she could not satisfy my request because, "our computer is down." She suggested that I go to the business office and obtain a print out from them. She was under the impression, obviously, that the computer in that office was operable. She was mistaken.

After visiting nearly every office and meeting some really nice people, all of whom attempted to access the necessary information on the terminals available, finally the necessary magic was performed and my files, located at the end of some mysterious wire somewhere, were accessed. Success, I thought. Nope. Not at all. As impatient personnel waited for the new, improved machines to provide them with the data and information necessary to perform their assigned duties, I was informed that my statement had been mailed last week. Therefore, I was told, they could not access the information necessary to secure my balance.

Of course, I did not have the statement because it takes, they informed me, approximately five days to reach me. Alas and alak, I am at the mercy of the computer and the information necessary to secure my balance.

I attempted to unscramble this puzzlement with the clerk, to no avail. The only response I could get was, "Call the number on the statement, sir."

'A bedroom ghost makes me tardy'

I firmly believe that I have a ghost in my home. Not an unfriendly ghost, mind you, but just some mischievous, unearthly being that seems to enjoy getting me into trouble by shutting off my alarm clock every morning before it has had the chance to wake me up.

Now I know that no one believes me when I try to tell them that it is not me, but some invisible being, that causes me, to occasionally roll into work late, but I vainly continue to try to convince everyone anyway.

This is something that has been going on for about six years. I guess it all started during my first year of college, probably about the time when I first became aware of those dreaded "all-nighters" that every serious college student experiences during exam time.

I can remember the very first time that the "ghost" came to my bedroom.

Naturally, I had slept through my exam. Fortunately for me, I did get the opportunity to make it up, but I was well aware that not all professors would be so cooperative. So I stood corrected and vowed that I would never again wait until the night before an exam to study.

janice fritz

Still, I was puzzled at how my clock could have been shut off. I distinctly remember setting that clock, and I was not tired when I did it, as my mother subtly suggested.

That particular incident soon passed. Soon after, my alarm clock began to shut off at regular intervals during my slumber.

Things were so bad that I would ask someone else to set my clock for 6:30 a.m., just to make sure that I wasn't doing something wrong.

There I was, the night before a big exam, drinking pot after pot of coffee, and studying like there was no tomorrow.

Well, there wasn't. At least as far as the exam went.

Somehow in the middle of the night my alarm clock, which was set hours earlier in case I were to fall asleep while studying, had been shut off.

Even that didn't help.

Therefore, I decided to go out and buy a new clock. And, while I was at it, I went so far as to get a wind-up clock to use as a backup for the electric, digital one.

Although that seemed to be working fine for a while, the trouble started again. This was when I realized that it wasn't the alarm clock or myself that was at fault. I knew then that it was ghost.

It had to be. How else could this continue to happen?

I know that no one believes me. They all think that because I am a deep sleeper. I shut it off myself in my sleep. But this is not true. I once tried moving the clock away from my nightstand to where I would be forced to get out of bed to shut it off. Still, I woke up to find that clock next to me, on the nightstand again. Explain that.

Okay, Mom, you are right in saying that I've gone though "umpteen" clocks during the past few years. I know it can't be me. Yes, I know that I do tend to hit my snooze alarm 15 times before I actually get out of bed (that is, on the rare occasion that it actually goes off to wake me up), but if my own mother doesn't believe me, then who will?

This "ghost" is really out to get me. It even followed me to California recently.

Perhaps one day soon someone will design an alarm clock that is "virtually ghost proof."

In the meantime, I am asking for any interested "ghostbusters" willing to help me set a trap to come forward. And by the way, if Bill Murray or Dan Ackroyd are reading this column, they can call me directly. That is, if I'm not sleeping in.

friend of mine, Mike Dozier, took me under his wing and taught me a lot. He was a phenomenal guitarist, to be reckoned with anywhere. He would come up with ideas that were way ahead of his time.

Next thing I know, I'm working on the jingles and playing on all kinds of commercials like Michigan Consolidated Gas, Budweiser and the Michigan Lottery.

But the biggest experience I ever had was making the Lonely Teardrops song for the La Bamba movie. That was cool. In the video for Jumpin' Jack Flash, I was just a gaffer, which means I only worked with the equipment.

Program needs help

First Step, the Western Wayne County Project on Domestic Assault, needs volunteers ages 18 and older to answer crisis lines, provide transportation and assist in community outreach programs.

Volunteer opportunities are available at the Westland office, Downriver satellite office and shelter.

For more information on how to be a part of the First Step corps of volunteers, call Therese Farley from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at 525-2230.

Associated Newspapers Carrier of the Month

No sense trying to hide. When Ernie Lange of Chamberlain Street in Romulus wants you to sign up and subscribe to the Romulus Roman of the Associated Newspaper chain, he'll find you, one way or another.

The determined sixth-grader at Cory Elementary School first started with 27 customers last year. When he found that door-to-door soliciting was not the answer, he and his parents found another method.

Lange is the Associated Newspapers Carrier of the Month for August.

"We put these little pieces of paper with my name and address on it inside the paper. I did a different street each week. Now I have 53 paying customers," said 11-year-old Ernie.

Ernie is conscientious. Every Wednesday when the weekly papers arrive, he folds them, "so the fillers don't fall out," he said.

The tips are good, Lange said, as almost everybody lets him keep 50 cents. With the money he earns, he bought half of a bike (his parents funded the other half), some "toys" and attended a Red Wing Hockey game with his dad, Ernie.

He enjoys school, where his favorite subjects are reading and English. He is an avid sports enthusiast.

Ernie delivers the Romulus Roman on 11 streets. Ironically, his sister, Tammy, recently joined the ranks of carrier, and between the two and one other individual, they deliver to all the houses in the subdivision.

"I have just the right amount of customers. I can handle it," he said without a doubt.

If you would like to earn money, trips and prizes like Ernie by becoming an Associated Newspapers carrier, call the circulation department at 729-4000.

Group discusses wetlands

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Although former State Rep. Thomas Anderson provided a history of wetlands legislation at the July 30 Conference of Western Wayne workshop, the co-author of the Goemaere-Anderson Act had no new information to clarify the current controversy over the administration of the wetlands protection act.

Members of the 17-community consortium are seeking a clearer definition of wetlands and an accurate inventory of the lands which are designated as such. The communities also have expressed concern that the Department of Natural Resources is over-aggressive in defining wetlands and in the "excessive" length of time needed to obtain necessary permits to construct in a wetlands area.

CWW members have asked that "a balance between environmental and economic development goals be established."

Environmentalists have described wetlands as "nature's supermarket," providing sources of nutrients in water food cycles, sanctuaries for fish and a wildlife habitat in addition to erosion and flood control, protection of subsurface water resources and a natural pollution treatment.

Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, who serves as CWW chairman, and Jan Buren Township Supervisor Lynne Hamilton, CWW treasurer, both have indicated their concern about the identification of wetlands. At present, the CWW officials said, developers have come into their communities and later found that the properties they had chosen as building sites were wetlands. Griffin and Hamilton said those areas should be identified in advance so that the communities and the developers do not spend their time and money on proposals that are doomed to be blocked.

In his speech to the CWW members, Anderson said the same questions which are being asked today are the ones debated before passage of the legislation. Anderson said the intent of the lawmakers was to have "partnership and harmony" between the manufacturers, developers, farmers, cities and towns while preserving the wetlands which he described as one of the most valuable assets of the state.

Wilbur Young of Wayne asked Anderson if the intent of the law was "to preserve 100 percent of the wetlands." Anderson said the intention was to preserve "key and significant" wetlands.

When questioned by Griffin as to whether the lawmakers had intended to limit the wetlands definition to "historic and traditional" wetlands or to also include man-made wetlands, Anderson said he couldn't recall a specific discussion on the definition.

The former representative said a draft of rules concerning the wetlands act are in committee and will be referred to the Joint Rules Committee for approval. In addition, he said, an inventory of wetlands is being conducted.

Alright, I'll play. I tried, I really did. But I was an unhappy person. A very unhappy person. I went home and attempted to call the number on the statement. The operator who came on the line informed me that I could not dial long distance without first dialing 0. Now, I have never in my life heard of such a system nor of anyone having to dial double 0 for anything. But I did it. Whereupon I was told by another operator that in order to place this long-distance call, I now had to dial a four-digit number prior to the long-distance number. Then, another operator asked me which company I had long-distance service through. This was getting complicated and I admit I was starting to lose it. But the fuhad just begun.

I finally convinced the young male operator to place the call for me which he finally did, only to be answered by, you guessed it, recording. Well folks, this goes on and on and frankly it doesn't get any better so onto the point of all of this.

It has been suggested that the very technology we have created to serve our need at the very least becomes that to which we are a servant. In the extreme, the technology becomes a threat to our very existence either, according to fantasy, because it devours its own ability to make decisions or becomes a tool in the hands of those who wish to control or manipulate a society. Consider the realities of the world we live in today. With access to the central data base which reports on one's credit standing, medical history, criminal record, background, voting record, affiliations, any of us can become labeled, pigeon-holed, cut off and ultimately a victim of the wonderful world of technology that we live in.

Those who know how to manipulate the data base using the technology are able to control decisions and the decision making process and ultimately the outcome of any situation. We think that Hitler and the Nazis were able to ride roughshod over the law and civil authority but it could not happen here today. But in the right hands, the gift of knowledge about computer technology, one could methodically emasculate groups of people in order to control them or prevent them from gaining a power in our society. Blacks, Jews, women, the elderly... shall I go on?

Our rights and freedoms must be defended or they will diminish and disappear from the face of the earth. At the risk of sounding like Superman, here's to truth and justice, may we never shirk from our resolve to defend and obtain them both.

See you next week.

Hearn: Minister reacts to tragedy

By JANICE FRITZ

church

A lot of unanswered questions still remain for the members of the People's Community Baptist Church in Westland, members who once worshiped with slain Inkster police Sgt. Ira Parker and one of the men accused in his death, Roy Lemons Jr.

In addition, Hearn and Parker became "dear friends" during the years, in part because the minister acts as a chaplain of the Inkster Police Department.

"My heart is truly saddened by this tragedy," said Hearn. "In the 33 years that I've been a pastor, I've never witnessed anything that has had such a personal impact on myself and those around me. When I drive down Michigan Avenue, I always remind of a great loss."

Lemons joined the church in 1981. However, Hearn said, because Lemons failed to complete church orientation, he was never recognized as a full member of the church.

Hearn said that the sadness concerning the shootings has affected almost everyone in the church.

"The bereavement that my congregation is feeling over the slayings is something that is unequal to that of normal bereavement because it just seems so senseless. I think that we all know that death is not uncommon, and we all deal with it in our own way. But when something like this comes along, it just doesn't add up. I just doesn't make any sense."

And the mourning doesn't end at the church entrance, Hearn continued.

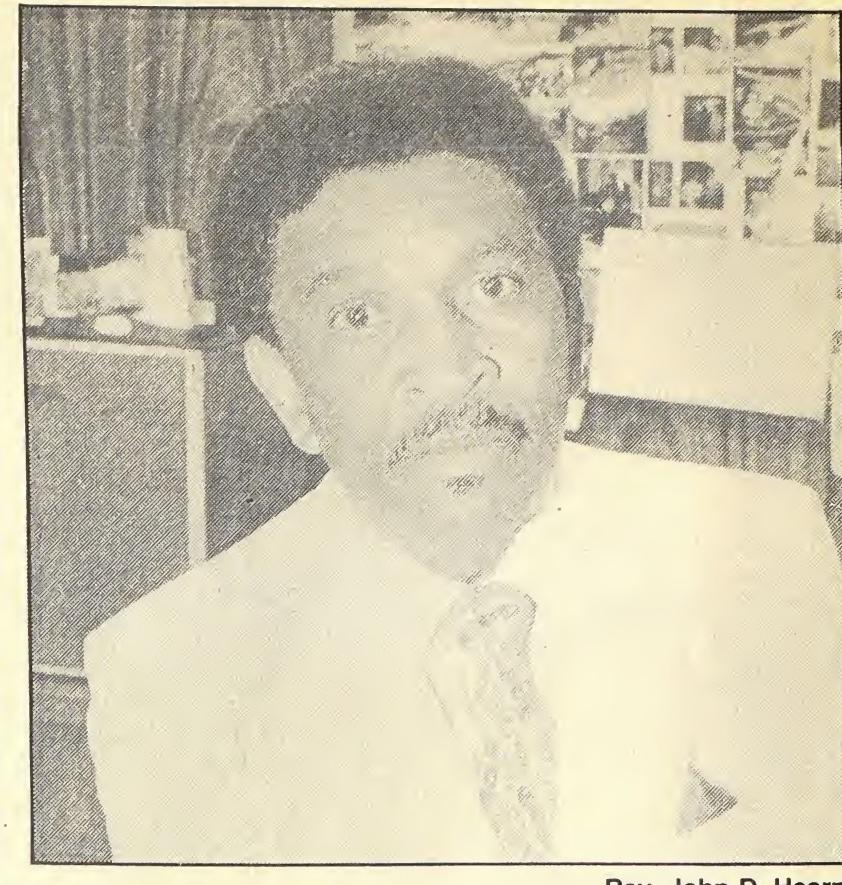

"When three police officers are attacked, then that's actually an attack on not only the people who enforce the law, but also those who abide by the law," the minister said.

Hearn conducted the memorial service honoring the three slain policemen at the Inkster Recreation Center July 14. He said that the theme of the service was "while we cannot understand why this happened, we must still find ways to endure the pain caused by all of this through prayer."

And, he said, the continuing support from the community has been a huge help in bearing the burden of grief.

One of the main questions that Hearn said he has been asked recently by members of his church is whether or not the people accused of shooting the policemen can ever be forgiven by God.

"That's what is so wonderful about God. He loves everyone, no matter what we do, even if our actions hurt him," Hearn explained. "But that doesn't mean that we'll be excused from the consequences."

Pampering contest planned

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

After a stress-filled day at work and having to take care of everyday household chores, many women like to fantasize about how nice it would be to be pampered by someone else for a change.

Oh, to have the time and extra money to get facials or manicures like the stars do....

And now the owner of Sadie's Salon, located at 3131 S. Wayne Road, Wayne, is trying to help make those dreams come true.

Sadie's has launched a search for the 50 most pampered women in the Wayne-Westland area. The search is an attempt to introduce women to the total salon approach to image modification, according to owner Sadie Metzgian.

"Every woman loves to be pampered, and now here's her chance. Who wouldn't love being primped over for five weeks? Our program will enhance every woman's appearance, which is always a boost to the ego. And since she'll feel better, she'll look better, which will give her self-confidence," Metzgian said.

The program, called "Pamper-Me-Pretty," is open to the first 50 clients who register.

Program members receive a five-week "image redo," which includes a hair cut and styling, along with advice on hair coloring, a facial and skin care consultation, a makeup application, nail care and a pedicure and session on color consultation.

Members who register will set up five separate appointments for the program.

At the end of the five-week program, members "graduate," complete with a "Pamper-Me-Pretty" t-shirt and a one-year membership good for discounts on many products and services at Sadie's.

THANK YOU... ■ ■ ■

The Inkster Community suffered a painful loss in the tragic deaths of three of our police officers, Dan Dubiel, Ira Parker and Clay Hoover. Their loss has been a personal tragedy for their families, their fellow officers and for every citizen of our community.

We can only begin here to express our thanks for your presence, your condolences and your contributions on behalf of the families of our fallen defenders.

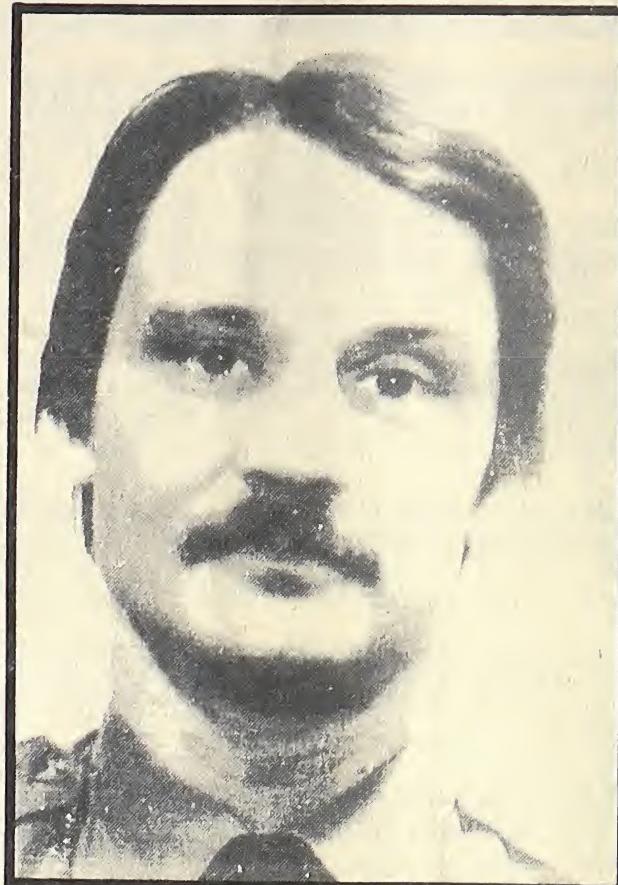

You know who you are. You are the officers of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, the Michigan State Police, the F.B.I. and the many other police officers surrounding Inkster who so selflessly came to our aid.

You know who you are. You are the 3,000 fellow officers who came to our community from across the United States and Canada. You are from municipalities, counties, states and federal agencies. From Canada, you are from Montreal and London and Toronto and Windsor and from the Ontario Provincial Police and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

You know who you are. You are the children and the adults who have taken the time to express your condolences and, in a meaningful gesture, to contribute to the survivors fund.

You have given us your sympathy and your strength, your strong shoulders and your contributions.

To all of you too numerous to mention, the Inkster Police Department and the community of the City of Inkster, Michigan, express our thanks and our appreciation.

Igor Beginin

Teaching art is his life

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

The American dream is alive and well. Just ask Igor Beginin. An art professor at Eastern Michigan University, Beginin came to the United States in 1955 from Yugoslavia. He served in the United States Navy and has worked as a draftsman and a painter. In 1971, he moved to Canton.

Beginin relishes the experience of expressing himself through his artwork. He also enjoys sharing his knowledge and experience with his students. He said he is at home in the classroom.

"I really enjoy to teach," said Beginin, who has taught art at EMU since 1968. "I hope I can help students develop, and I like keeping in touch with the younger generation."

Beginin said that students' work changes with the times and often reflects what is happening in the world.

"Changes in art are often influenced by the different eras," Beginin noted.

"We had an increase in enrollment because of the Vietnam War, and the work during that time dealt with the war."

"The students work today reflects the economic conditions and some practical work such as finding a job."

Beginin has also seen some changes in the attitudes and abilities of his students.

"The students at Eastern are more committed than they used to be," he said. "They are more committed to a quality education." A foundation in drawing, said Beginin, is essential to any aspiring artist.

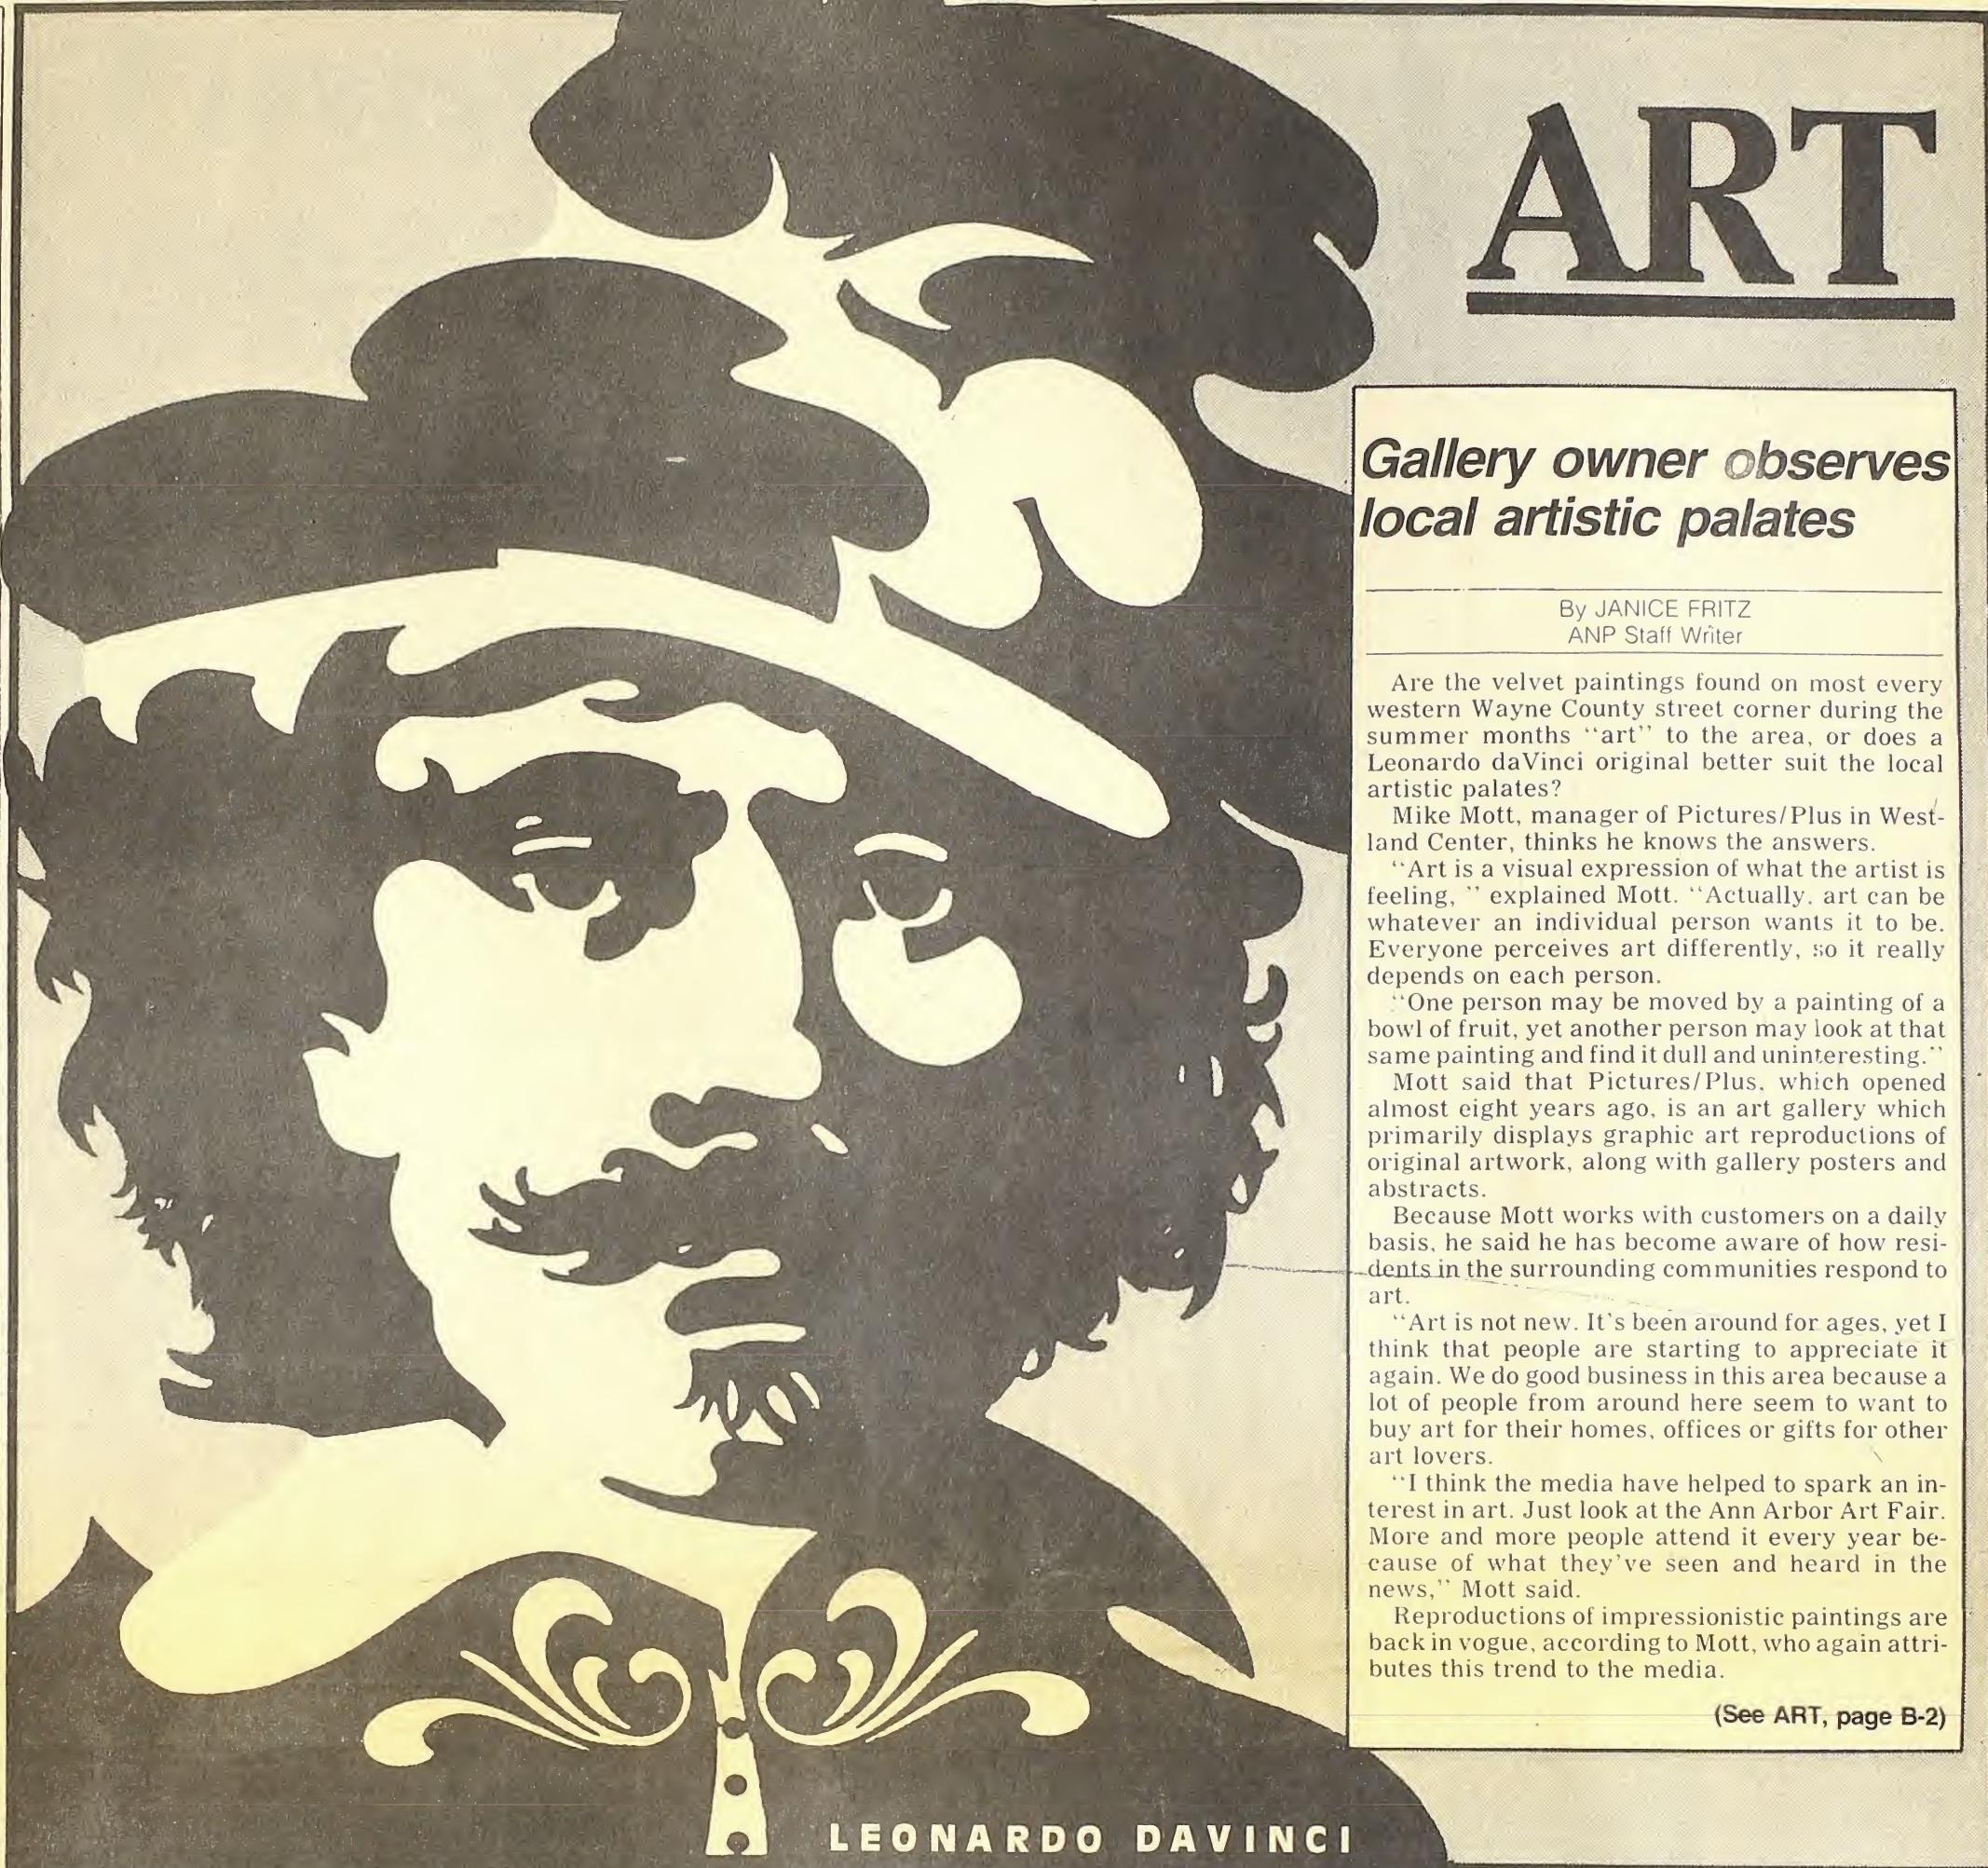

"Whatever field they go into, it (drawing) is necessary, and it depends on preparation," Beginin explained.

It was because of his job at EMU that Beginin chose Canton as his place of residence.

"I moved to Canton in 1971, and I really enjoy the town," said Beginin, who likes the location of Canton in relationship to Ann Arbor and Detroit.

"I have a nice park out in back of my house, and I really love the whole town," said Beginin, who has his work on display throughout the country.

"I've had my work in exhibits and galleries in New York, New Orleans and Kansas City, just to name a few. I have also sold 13 paintings to the Renaissance Center, and my work has also been bought by General Motors and Ford," said Beginin.

ART

Gallery owner observes local artistic palates

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

Are the velvet paintings found on most every western Wayne County street corner during the summer months "art" to the area, or does a Leonardo daVinci original better suit the local artistic palates?

Mike Mott, manager of Pictures/Plus in Westland Center, thinks he knows the answers.

"Art is a visual expression of what the artist is feeling," explained Mott. "Actually, art can be whatever an individual person wants it to be. Everyone perceives art differently, so it really depends on each person."

"One person may be moved by a painting of a bowl of fruit, yet another person may look at that same painting and find it dull and uninteresting."

Mott said that Pictures/Plus, which opened almost eight years ago, is an art gallery which primarily displays graphic art reproductions of original artwork, along with gallery posters and abstracts.

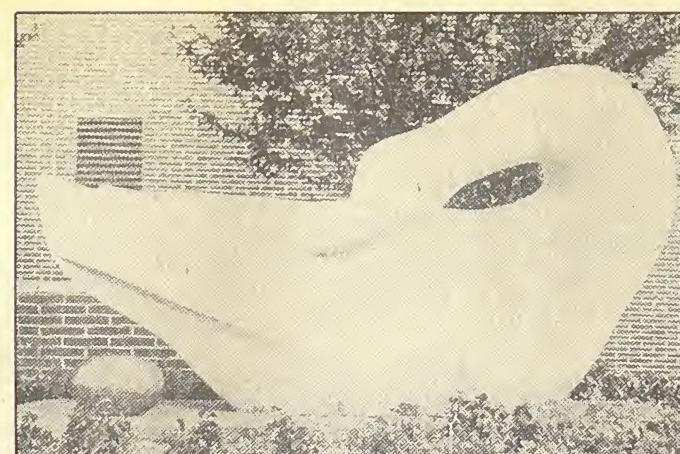

Because Mott works with customers on a daily basis, he said he has become aware of how residents in the surrounding communities respond to art.

"Art is not new. It's been around for ages, yet I think that people are starting to appreciate it again. We do good business in this area because a lot of people from around here seem to want to buy art for their homes, offices or gifts for other art lovers."

"I think the media have helped to spark an interest in art. Just look at the Ann Arbor Art Fair. More and more people attend it every year because of what they've seen and heard in the news," Mott said.

Reproductions of impressionistic paintings are back in vogue, according to Mott, who again attributes this trend to the media.

Area is filled with custom artworks

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Area art isn't limited to little chubby men dressed in checked overalls and donkeys holding hamburgers. And it isn't just prefabricated bird baths or plastic windmills either.

Art in the real terms of sculpture and painting is very much alive in western Wayne County, according to several local artists who have studied the subject.

Although not on the same scale as Detroit or Ann Arbor, art exists in each community in some form or another, according to Kitty Davies of Belleville. Davies has taught young artists for several years in a Belleville art club when area schools didn't have money to provide such programs.

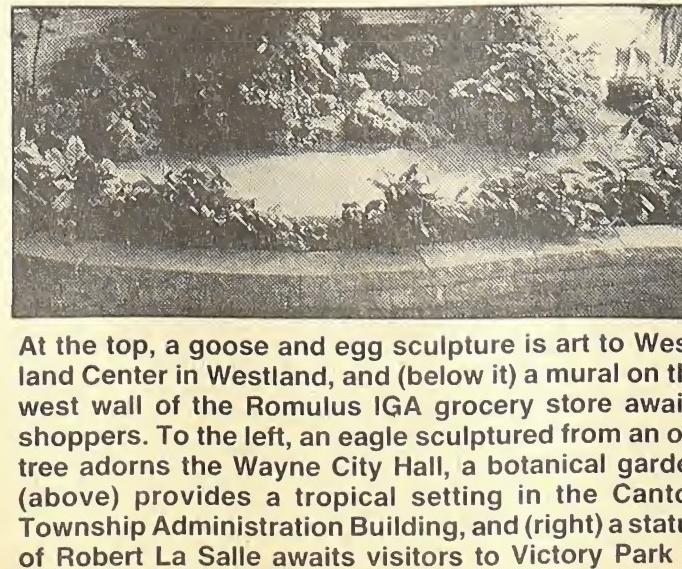

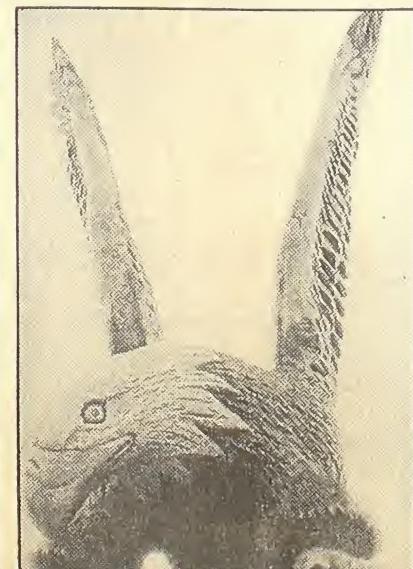

"But that's not enough," said Davies. "A lot of people won't go to Detroit and visit the Detroit Institute of Arts, and they don't like the traffic in Ann Arbor. I would live at the DIA if I could," she said.

An accomplished artist, Davies suggested that the answer to providing for local artistic outlets are in traveling exhibits to be displayed at city halls, township buildings and libraries. The more viewing sites available, she said, the more apt local residents will be to appreciate the great art forms.

"It's sad that many people don't think art is important. You have to take the time and appreciate beauty," Davies explained.

Canton resident Tillie Schultz noted that area art can already be found in local banks and some public buildings.

"There is a definite need, but I feel concern is growing," she said.

Anderson - 50th

The children of Henry and Jalanta Anderson proudly announce the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents. On Aug. 8, 1987, Henry and Jalanta will renew their wedding vows at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne.

Henry and Jalanta Anderson

Rayburn - 50th

Clyde and Delia Rayburn were honored on May 16 at an open house celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Married May 30, 1937, the Rayburns started out in Kentucky and later moved to Michigan, where Clyde was employed at the Willow Run bomber plant and later at Ford Motor Company in Ypsilanti. He retired in 1980.

Throughout the years, the couple have cared for many foster children, in addition to their own four. They also have

Clyde and Delia Rayburn

12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The couple have been active members of Grace Baptist Church in Belleville for many years.

Art

"Ever since the news broke about the recent sale of an original (Vincent) van Gogh painting for $11.6 million, people are starting to want to buy the reproduction of the painting. It seems that even owning a reproduction of an impressionist painting is prestigious," said Mott.

The van Gogh sale to which Mott referred occurred in January. The painting "Sunflowers" was sold at Christy's Auction House in London.

Ironically, van Gogh had sold only one painting while he was alive. This fact, Mott said, makes the artwork an investment.

"Just as van Gogh only sold one of his paintings — and for probably very little — there are contemporary artists who are selling their original artwork today for very little in comparison with what that artwork may later sell for," said Mott.

"I have had customers who have scrimped and saved every penny just so they could come into the store and purchase a particular picture that was hanging on our wall. Then, too, I have sold artwork to people who, on a whim, decided to just treat themselves to some new paintings and didn't have to worry about a budget."

Mott said typically there are certain modes that people of each age group seem to fit. Teens appreciate an art form not well appreciated by senior citizens. However, Mott said, such a trend is to be expected.

"The younger crowd, say 11 to 21, seems to go for the artwork that features sports cars and also Marilyn Monroe or James Dean, both of whom seem more popular to the young girls today than when they were alive," said Mott.

"People from the young adults on up seem to be more interested in the florals and the abstract. They take care in looking at the colors of the paintings because they usually want them to coordinate with the color scheme of their home. Of course, there are still a great deal of people who look for the traditional, classic paintings, such as the Reniers or the van Goghs."

Mott added that the attitudes toward art are quickly changing and that art lovers are no longer considered "square" or "snobbish."

Just as van Gogh only sold one of his paintings — and for probably very little — there are contemporary artists who are selling their original artwork today for very little in comparison with what that artwork may later sell for," said Mott.

"I have had customers who have scrimped and saved every penny just so they could come into the store and purchase a particular picture that was hanging on our wall. Then, too, I have sold artwork to people who, on a whim, decided to

Tee TimeCity golf titles are up for grabs

It's tee time for the 1987 City Championship Golf Tournament.

And, with the defending champ, Michael Horn, not around to defend his title, "it's a whole new ball game," according to tournament manager, Bill Hawley.

"We have a smaller field than we have had in previous years," noted Hawley, who has served as tournament manager for the past 15 invitatorials. "However, this year's field includes some of the best amateur golfers around. I believe that, weather permitting, you'll find that the quest for medalist honors will be another interesting one."

Horn had to shake off Kevin Ryan of Inkster a year ago to win the 1986 championship. He had to do it in a "sudden death" playoff on the third hole. Ryan is back.

"Ryan is tough and, if he has his game together, he should be the one to beat. But don't count Tom Condit out of this. Condit won the Wayne title a year ago. Others who may have legitimate claims to the crown include Kevin Schaum (Canton) and Ray Ostyn (Wayne).

The 28th annual tournament will get underway on Saturday at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton Township, located at 2936 Lotz Road.

The course, recently remodeled to include an additional nine holes, is a fitting challenge for the competitors, according to Hawley. "We will be playing the East and South courses," Hawley added. The east is a 3,200-yard layout while the south has a span of 3,062 yards.

Ryan, who has carded a 67 for 18 holes owns the course record. "The course is all new."

stressed Dick Sendo, "and, you can't take anything for granted." Sendo believes the 139-yard par 3, 5-hole, surrounding by water on the south course, and the 155-yard, 5-hole on the eastside could be doubly perplexing.

The tournament is staged to determine the city (and township) amateur male golf champions for the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster, and Garden City along with Canton Township. The separate city championships also are staged to determine five-men teams that will represent their respective cities at the Michigan Parks and Recreation Department's state championships scheduled for later this year.

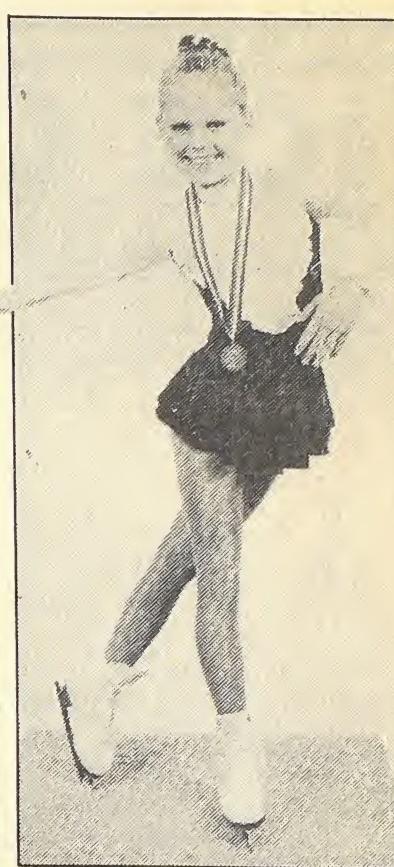

Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in each flight. There will be an additional trophy for the winner of the entire field (medalist) and a traveling trophy presented to the winner of the Wayne championship flight. The trophy, offered by the Wayne Police Department, honors Patrolman Len Anderson, the first Wayne police officer to be slain in the line of duty.

If there is a tie for a trophy, a "sudden death" playoff will be waged to determine the winner.

Tee times can be found accompanying this story. Any-one who has entered the tournament and doesn't find his name, please contact the Associated Newspapers' sports desk (729-4000) or staff writer Tom Mooradian.

Kasi Patterson

Jacqulyn Mitchell

'Young skaters' are pros on the ice

Joining the search for gold medals last week in Marquette at the Great Lakes State Games were Wayne figure skaters, Kasi Patterson, and Jacqulyn Mitchell.

Their youth deceives the number of years experience the two lovely skaters have.

Kasi is 12, but has been skating since she was nine and, Jacqulyn is 10, and she had already won national recognition. Both skaters have a long list of accomplishments. Besides doing well in local competition, Patterson has competed in regional and national competition.

Kasi began her skating career at the Wayne Community Center under the tutelage of Janis Rychlinski. She was coached by Darcy Rychlinski.

Kasi decided to get more extensive training and became affiliated with the Academy Figure Skating program at the Icebox Arena in Brownstown. She is now being trained by Ann Seror for her freestyle and figures and Karolyn Creamer and Donald Adair for ice dancing. Kasi is a member of the Detroit Skate Club Novice Precision team which is coached by Ester Polonek. The team recently captured a silver medal at the United States Precision Competition staged in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

With all the points Patterson had managed to accumulate this year for tests taken and placements in her competitions, she was awarded the prestigious title of "Skater of the Year for Great Lakes".

Kasi won a gold medal in ice dancing recently at Skate Detroit, and she continues to work hard to pass her second figure so that she may compete in the regional competitions scheduled for October in Indianapolis, Ind.

The daughter of James and Christine Patterson, Kasi is an eighth grader at Franklin Junior High School. When she isn't skating, Kasi loves to swim and read. But, skating six hours a day, keeps her pretty busy.

"I would like to go as far as I can as a skater," she commented, "and, someday, maybe become a coach."

Jacqulyn also is a member of the Detroit Skate Club precision team that took a silver medal at the nationals in Tulsa. At the Eastern Great Lakes regionals, she was a medalist.

And Mitchell is only 10 years old.

Putting in five to six hours of work on the ice leaves Jacqulyn little time to do anything else. Karolyn Creamer is her instructor in ice dancing, while she is affiliated with the Academy Figure Skating Club, and skates out of the Icebox Arena in Trenton. Her pro is Ann Seror.

Jacqulyn is a fourth grader at St. John's Lutheran School in Westland and the daughter of Jim and Gloria Mitchell of Fletcher Street.

Patterson and Mitchell will be competing in the juvenile freestyle division in Marquette.

Physical examinations will be conducted for all Romulus High and junior high boys and girls who are planning to compete in athletics this fall. The physicals are scheduled for 5 to 7 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 5 in the Romulus Senior High School gymnasium.

There is a $5 fee for the physicals.

School officials caution that no athlete will be permitted to compete in a sport without a physical examination. For further information, contact Fred Coleman, athletic director, at 941-2170.

Canton has found its "hotshots" who will be representing the township in the Pepsi/NBA Hotshot area finals this fall. The city of Detroit is host for the championships.

In the girls 9-12 age bracket, Kelley Reeber, with 23 points, emerged as the winner, while Sarah Madsen was runner up (14 points). In the same age group, but for boys, the winner is Pat Nelson (91 points) and second best is Matt Paupore (87).

Jackie Worosz garnered 50 points to win the girls 13-15 title, beating out Jenny Strecker, who had 24, who was second. For boys, Kevin Holmes piled up 113 points for his first place trophy, while Mike Andrzejewski finished second with 89.

In the 16-18 age group, Brenda Carey, with 42 points, was declared the winner, and Doug Donalson finished first in the same age group. Donalson had 98 points.

The competition involved shooting baskets from five "hotshots" and accumulating points within a one minute period. Tested was the competitor's speed, shooting, dribbling, and rebounding skills.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce will conduct its annual golf outing Tuesday, Sept. 15 at Fellows Creek Golf Course, 2936 Lotz Road. It's a shotgun start, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

A foursome may register for $180, and further information may be obtained by telephoning 453-4040.

The Inkster Parks and Recreation Department is seeking tennis players for its 9th annual open tennis tournament which is scheduled for August 21, 22, and 23 on the courts at the Recreation Complex, 2025 Middlebelt.

Competition has been set up for several age groups. There is a small registration fee.

For further information, contact Greg Ulrich, at 728-7530, at the Recreation Complex.

Ruth E. Williams, Inkster athletic supervisor, said that are still openings for the men's open modified "fast" pitch softball tournament which is slated for August 14. Games will be played at Westwood and Oakgrove Parks.

Deadline to submit the $100 registration fee and team roster is Friday, Aug. 7.

Those team managers who need further information, contact Williams at 728-7530.

"Sports Briefs" are compiled and edited by Tom Mooradian. Those wishing to submit information for consideration in this column may do so by mail or telephoning the sports desk (729-4000) during regular business hours, Monday through Friday.

ICE CREAM

Favorite American dessert dished up dozens of ways

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Apple pie may be the American favorite, but that favorite treat just isn't complete without the a la mode. And just mention ice cream, and faces everywhere – young and old – light up like Christmas trees. There's something mysterious about this cool, creamy dairy product that brings out the kid in almost everyone.

The mention of ice cream brought pleasant thoughts and memories of both the past and present for several residents visiting the Dyer Center in Westland recently. The visitors were debating the merits of the old-fashioned ice cream and the new 1,000 flavors-plus. Their decisions. Well, you decide . . .

"Chocolate is still my favorite," said Joe Lapinsky, 65 of Dearborn Heights. "Topped with chocolate syrup, chocolate on chocolate. I like the works. Right now there's a half gallon of fudge ripple in the ice box."

Lapinsky is a member of the Woodcarvers club, which meets each Friday morning in the Dyer Center. Last week, when someone mentioned ice cream, faces lit up and smiles appeared. The seniors' steady concentration had been broken.

"I like butter pecan and French vanilla," said Bob Burling, 67, of Wayne. "It's always in the freezer, for whenever I have the urge. Mostly, it's for company. I guess I'm just an ice cream freak."

And the good old days may not have been so good when it comes to ice cream. Everybody talks about homemade ice cream, but for one resident, the store-bought variety goes without mention.

"I don't think (homemade) was so good," said Joe Moskowa, 72, of Westland. "They didn't have all the flavors they have today. I'll take store bought over homemade any day."

"The nice thing about ice cream when I was a kid was that it cost a nickel a cone. Now it costs an arm and a leg. I remember recently we stopped in some little burg and bought two scoops of ice cream that were as big as your fists. It was all you could do to hold onto them. But good ice cream is worth the price," said Joe Pinho, 67, of Dearborn.

Lee Maloney, 77, of Westland added, "Ice cream is refreshing all the time. I like plain old vanilla. When I was a kid, homemade ice cream was available only on special occasions during the summer."

Fran McRoberts, 69, of Westland, remembers visiting the Senate Sweetshop on Michigan Avenue every Thursday.

"They had the biggest banana splits in town. Now when my husband isn't around, I go over to Sander's for a hot fudge sundae," she said.

Millie Farrell, publicist for the senior center remarked, "When I was kid back on the farm, the Fourth of July was the big occasion when we made ice cream. It was rich and delicious. Mmmmm, good."

But whatever the preference, ice cream can be "sans the cone," the seniors agreed. Here are a few examples.

BANANA SPLIT PIE

1 baked pie shell
3 bananas
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 pint strawberry ice cream
1 cup Cool Whip
2 tablespoons chopped walnuts

Whole maraschino cherries

Thinly slice the bananas. Arrange on the bottom of pastry shell and sprinkle with lemon. Stir strawberry ice cream to soften and spread over bananas. Freeze until firm. Spread Cool Whip over ice cream. Top with cherries and walnuts. Freeze until firm. Let stand at room temperature before serving. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Chocolate Sauce:

1/3 cup cocoa
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup heavy cream
3 tablespoons butter

1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine ingredients in sauce pan. Cook over medium heat until boiling. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Cool. Put on pie along with cherries and walnuts.

PISTACHIO ICE CREAM DESSERT

50 crushed Ritz crackers
1 stick melted butter
2 small packages pistachio instant pudding
1 1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Cool Whip

Mix crackers with butter and pat into 9 x 13 pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool. Add milk to pudding and beat until thickened. Add vanilla and ice cream.

Pour on top of crust and refrigerate until firm. Cover with Cool Whip and sprinkle with coconut, nuts, or cherries. Freeze. Let stand for a few minutes before serving.

CHOCOLATE COCONUT DESSERT

1 cup (6 ounces) chocolate chips
5 cups (10 1/2 ounces) miniature marshmallows
6 tablespoons butter
1 cup chopped walnuts
13 ounces evaporated milk
1 1/3 cup coconut
2 cups crushed rice cereal
1/2 gallon vanilla ice cream

In saucepan, melt chocolate chips in milk and bring to boil. Boil gently uncovered for four minutes or until thickened. Stir constantly. Add marshmallows and stir until melted. Then chill.

In skillet, cook and stir coconut in butter until lightly browned. Stir in cereal and nuts. Spread 3 cups of the cereal mixture on bottom of 9 x 13 pan. Pour melted margarine over cookies and chill one hour.

In bowl, blend cream cheese and sugar. Add Cool Whip and spread over cookies and chill. Cook pudding with milk and cool before placing over cheese mixture. Top with Cool Whip and sprinkle remaining cookies. Chill.

Mackinac secrets are now revealed

just desserts
sue willett

Having recently been fortunate enough to visit the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, I wasted no time in making my way to the pastry shop in the hotel. One of the highlights of my adventure was watching the daily array of delectable desserts rotate in the glass case downstairs.

I was sure the cook was simply tormenting me as each day the creations were more and more elaborate and more and more delicious. I did, however, manage to secure some of the hotel secrets and wangled a few fairly simple recipes out of the kitchen.

FOUR-NUT TART

Crust:
1 cup ground almonds
1/2 cup powdered sugar
2/3 cup all-purpose flour
1 egg yolk, lightly beaten
6 tablespoons cold butter

Mix the almonds, sugar and flour in a bowl. Stir in the egg yolk. Cut the cold butter into small pieces and add to the dry ingredients. Mix lightly with your fingers and form into a ball. Wrap snugly and refrigerate at least an hour, preferably overnight. Roll out the dough between two pieces of waxed paper until it is about 1/8 inch thick. Transfer to a 9-inch tart pan with a removable bottom. Cover the pastry with foil. Add some dried beans on top of the foil to keep the pastry from puffing. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 12 minutes. Cool on a rack.

Filling:
1/4 cup butter, softened
1 cup light brown sugar

Belleville captures district Little League softball title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Two tough pitchers and timely hitting provided Belleville with the keys to the District III girls softball championship and a berth in the state playoffs at Gaylord.

Christine Curtis and Mickey Cook won all four Belleville games at the Saline district for manager Harold Belanger and coach Gary Morris's club.

"The kids came through when they needed to," said Belanger of the 11 and 12 year old all-star traveling team. "And, though, we were shaky at times, we managed to play over the rough spots."

Belleville launched its bid for a district title with a 12-7 victory over Saline as Curtis, daughter of Peggy Curtis, Belleville High varsity softball coach, was in control all the way. Christine fanned eight and walked four in chalking up the opening round victory.

Ann Jablonski accounted for three hits - all singles - and had four runs batted in, while Cook latched on to two hits for the winners.

In a rematch with Saline, the Belleville all-stars again emerged on top, this time by a convincing 11-2 victory. Cook went to the mound and silenced Saline with a three-hitter as she notched six strikeouts and walked two. Cook helped her own cause with three hits, including a two-run triple. She finished with six RBIs.

Tracy Witten contributed three hits in the winning cause.

Curtis then was called upon to cool Lincoln Park. She survived 16-11, getting ample hitting power from Cook, who checked in with three hits, and Star Stumph who had the game's only homer. Heather Holeshoe turned in with three hits, including a double and a triple.

The local all-stars wrapped up the series and the title with a 9-1 victory over LP. Cook scattered two hits for the win.

Jablonski, Curtis and Cook split nine hits between them - each getting three.

Belleville Major all-stars are scheduled to take to the field at Gaylord in a two-game elimination playoff for the state Little League title. Their first game is set for 12:30 p.m.

The winner at Gaylord will qualify to play in the national championships scheduled the following week in Indianapolis.

Asked of his team chances at the state, Belanger said that "anything can happen."

"We have an excellent team," he replied, "however, we don't know what is waiting for us in Gaylord."

District champs

Coleman is named

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

What Fred Coleman, the newly-appointed athletic director at Romulus High, would like to see "is more kids getting involved in sports and school activities."

"The more activities you can get students involved in at school, the more their achievement levels seem to increase. That is one of my goals - getting our students involved in their school programs."

The 40-year-old Coleman last week was appointed as athletic director by the Romulus Board of Education. He replaces Lowell Johnson, who retired from the position in June.

A native of Kalamazoo, Coleman has taught and coached in the school district for the past 17 years. He earned his college degree in education from Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

As the head of the department, Coleman will be responsible for 15 sports and a staff of 28 coaches. He will also move into the athletic director's office at the high school from the junior high where he has been teaching. One of the coaches Coleman will be advising is his wife, Gail, who has been the varsity volleyball coach for several years.

Coleman was selected from a field of 14 candidates, and he said one of the reasons why he applied for the position "is that I enjoy athletics and enjoy working with athletes and coaches. This is a new challenge and an opportunity. We have a great tradition in this school district, and I hope I can add to that tradition."
